

Cameron Coed Certified As Glamour Contestant

Two hundred enthusiastic viewers watched the parade of 13 attractively outfitted coeds Tuesday evening at Roberta Hall. The object: Selection of the best-dressed college woman at MSC.

With announcement of the winner, MSC had its first official entrant in Glamour magazine's annual "Ten Best-Dressed College Girls" contest. The winner here is to be entered by photographs against those named from all other colleges participating. Editors of Glamour will select 10 who will be flown to New York City, all expenses paid, to be feted by fashion and entertainment leaders.

Poised Georgia Lee Young became "best-dressed" coed after she had modeled three outfits varying from typical campus attire, to an off-campus ensemble, to a long, formal evening gown. A freshman who hopes to receive a double major in home economics and social science, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Young, Cameron. On weekends she is a hostess at the Rambler restaurant in Cameron. She was sponsored by Phi Mu sorority.

First runner-up was Rhea Smith from Anita, Iowa. She is also a freshman and was representing Hurst Approved Housing. Second runner-up was Judy LaMar, a junior from Burlington Junction. She represented Colhecon, women's honorary home economics organization.

All 13 contestants were given commendable scores, according to a member of the tallying committee. Criteria for selection was based on fashion awareness, wardrobe planning, appropriateness for the specified occasion, individuality, imagination, good grooming, shapeliness, posture, poise, and composure while answering a question.

Three faculty members who were among the seven-judge panel were Miss Mary Jackson, Mrs. Robert Mansell, and James R. Saucerman. Student judges were Miss Joan Rectors, Miss Sally Ann Jackson, Phil Burmeister, and Jerry Taylor. Assisting Bosch in presentation of the event were Bea Runyan, who help-

Ministers to Enlighten Students As They Consider 'Thy Neighbor'

Major events for MSC's annual Religious Emphasis Week will begin with a Fellowship Supper at 5 p. m. Sunday in the Rose Room.

All students are invited to attend this sandwich supper, which will be free of charge. The Rev. Claude Evans, chaplain at SMU, will be the speaker at this event. In the past he has served as a Naval chaplain, as director of the Wesley Foundation, and as editor of the "South Carolina Methodist Advocate."

His understanding of student life and his contemporary approach to religion should provide students with a concrete understanding of the week's theme, "My Neighbor."

The 10 o'clock classes on Monday will be dismissed so that students may attend an opening assembly for the week's events in the College Auditorium. The Reverend Evans will be the speaker.

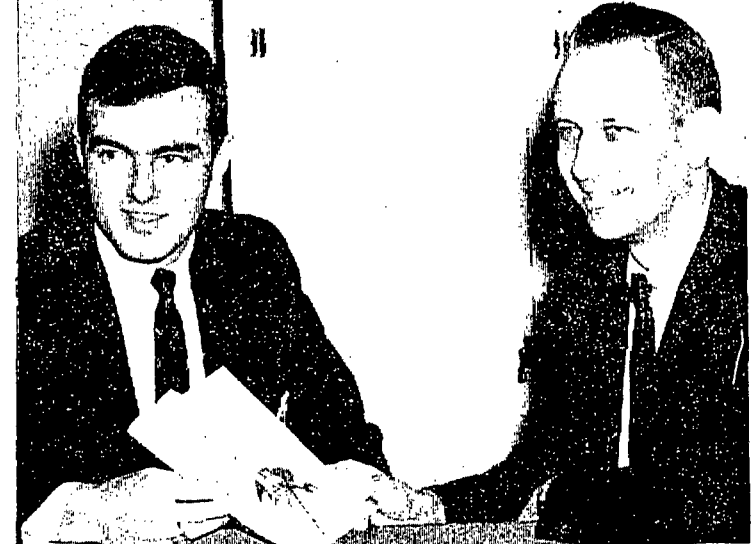

At 4 p. m. Monday, a film, "Love Thy Neighbor," will be shown in the audiovisual room of Wells Library. A second film, "Who Is My Neighbor?" will be shown at 4 p. m. Wednesday in the audiovisual room. These films are a new feature of the Religious Emphasis Week program.

At 2 p. m. Tuesday, the Rev. William Love, chaplain of St. Gregory's Junior College, Oklahoma City, will speak at an assembly in the Charles Johnson Theater. The Reverend Love has a BA degree with a double major in philosophy and the classics, a BD degree, and an MS degree from MIT. He has served as a coordinator and sponsor for several youth organizations.

At 10:35 Tuesday evening, devotions will be held for the girls in their dormitories. Guest speakers will be the Rev. Nancy Howard, Hudson Hall; Mrs. Hauser Winter, Perrin Hall; and Mrs. Margaret Hart, Roberta Hall.

The Reverend Howard will be the speaker at an assembly at 2 p. m. Wednesday in the Charles Johnson Theater. The Rev. Howard is the Baptist Student Director of Radford, Va., Women's College. She has served as research technician at Emory University, Atlanta, Ga., and at the University of Louisville, Ky. The student director has also served as a summer mis-

SURROUNDED BY SOUVENIRS of his native Germany, Peter H. Rodda admires his certificate of U. S. citizenship.

Becoming American Citizen Challenges German Student

International student Peter H. Rodda rates becoming an American citizen as his most exciting experience. Peter, who is from Nuremberg, Germany, received his American citizenship in 1964, and is presently a junior at MSC.

After graduating from Frankfurt American Military High School, he came to the U. S. and began his college education at St. Joseph Junior College. He is majoring in business education.

Rodda is a member of Pi Beta Alpha business fraternity and Delta Sigma Phi social fraternity. His busy schedule includes the instruction of the German language to President Foster's youngest son, Kemp Foster, who seems to be doing quite well, according to Peter's comments.

"Before coming to the U. S., I had a misconception that in America you didn't have to work to achieve. Now an American, I have grown wiser and realize that achievement requires hard work, whether you be an American or European."

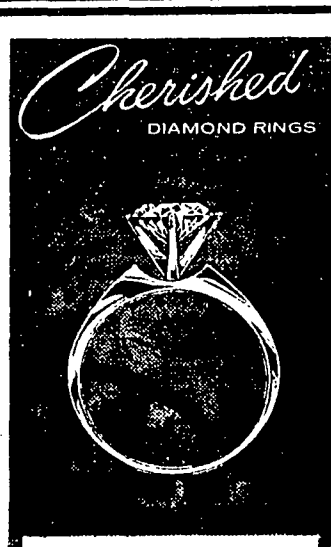

Peter added that without the understanding and help of his instructors as well as many friends, he could not have achieved his goals. He also said, "Since European schools are quite formal, I had to adjust to the academic freedom and friendliness that is common in an American classroom. German schools have neither dorms nor actual campus life as is known here at MSC. Universities lack sports programs as German educators believe the education of the mind to be of greater importance than that of the body."

On the subject of food and fashions, Peter explained that foods in Germany are quite varied compared to the American meals he now enjoys. Commented Peter, "In Germany, the young people, however, tend to copy fashions and music from the American youth."

At the end of the summer, Peter's parents, now living in Germany, will take up permanent residence in the United States.

As to his plans for this summer, Peter hopes to work as an aquatic director at a St. Joseph YMCA camp. After graduation, he plans to teach secondary school and possibly enter graduate school.

Social Science Honor Group To Institute MSC Chapter

Diane Whitney, Social Science Club, president, has announced that Pi Gamma Mu will soon institute a chapter on campus.

The organization is a national honor society for students studying social science. It was organized in 1924 and now has over 142 active chapters and more than 75,000 members. The society is also a member of the Association of College Honor Societies, on whose council it has a representative.

Presently, Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Nagel, Charles W. Fry, and Floyd D. Barrows are members of the society. New chapters are admitted to Pi Gamma Mu by the National Board of Trustees, who select accredited colleges and universities which are thoroughly prepared to maintain them. Members are initiated into the society only through their collegiate chapters.

Any person of good moral character who is, or was, an officer, member of the teaching staff, alumnus, graduate student, a senior or junior in his college or university may be elected to membership by a majority vote of the chapter under the supervision of chapter faculty members, or by a committee of faculty members.

The basic requirements for membership are:

1. That no persons be considered eligible who has any academic failure in any of the four core subjects of history, political science, sociology or economics.

2. That a minimum of 20 semester-hours of credit be completed in these fields.

3. That the prospective member have a minimum 3.0 scholastic average.

For further information, interested students should see Mr. Barrows in the social science office or Miss Whitney.

Lebanese Student Relaxes

As He Sketches, Fishes, Travels, Plays Basketball, Cuts Own Hair

Cutting his own hair, sketching pictures, playing basketball, fishing, and traveling are a few of the many skills, activities, and ambitions of a new foreign student, Fouad El-Kotob.

Fouad, a freshman, is from Beirut, Lebanon. Because the educational system in Lebanon is limited, he chose to come to the United States and MSC for several reasons. The free quite proficient in English. He has had to become accustomed to conversational English, including idioms and dialects. He also found that American people do not eat as much as the Lebanese.

Basketball, swimming, and fishing are Fouad's main pastimes. With the aid of a complicated mirror arrangement, he cuts his own hair. Drawing is another of his hobbies.

This summer Fouad hopes to buy a car and find a job to pass the time while waiting for the fall semester to begin. Before returning home, he plans to visit each one of the states.

choice of academic subjects and his desire to take part in the American way of life greatly influenced his decision.

A pre-electrical engineer major, Fouad hopes to return to Lebanon to help his people advance in this area. After completing his preparatory work at MSC he will transfer to a university to finish his degree.

Fouad is not the only member of his family to feel the need for an education higher than the five years of elementary and seven years of high school offered in Lebanon. Presently his brother is studying medicine in Vienna, Austria. In addition he has four other brothers and five sisters. His father is a merchant in Beirut.

Since this is his first trip to the states, Fouad had to adjust to many things. Although

Speech Students Judge Contests At Iowa Event

Four NWMSC speech majors represented the Speech and Drama Department as judges at the Iowa High School District Speech Contest at Mount Ayr, Iowa.

David Shestak, junior, Council Bluffs, judged poetry and after-dinner speaking; E. J. Maltzberger, junior, Mayville, original oratory; Phil Reser, sophomore, Independence, one-act plays; Harold Webb, sophomore, Ortonville, Mich., dramatic declamation, public address, and extemporaneous speaking.

Other judges included two Drake University speech students and several high school and college instructors from the area.

Contestants from 16 Iowa high schools entered the fields of declamation, after-dinner speaking, expository address, original oratory, extemporaneous speaking, radio speaking, interpretative reading, story telling, book review, one-act plays, and play reading.

"A meeting of judges prior to the contest familiarized us with the Constitution of the Iowa High School Speech Association and with the articles governing the Mount Ayr contest," explained Reser.

Evaluations began after room assignments and selection lists were given to the judges. Student time keepers served as chairmen and collected ballots and comment sheets. Performers receiving a Division I rating qualified for the state contest to be held at Atlantic.

In discussing the judging, Webb commented, "College speech majors should be given more experience at speech contests to develop a better understanding of speech improvement at the secondary school level."

Some Men Oppose; Others Approve Tests to Determine Draft Status

Starting on May 1, draft tests are to be given to about 1.5 million male college students and high school seniors.

The Inquiring Photographer set out to get a small opinion poll concerning the tests. A few MSC students were asked their feelings regarding the draft test, and these are their answers:

Jerry Dorsey, Anita, Iowa, industrial arts major: "The ones that don't have the grades to stay in college will be found out, but if they don't have good enough grades to stay in college and it is all academic, I don't think I would want them fighting for me."

D. Rettenmaier R. Erickton

Dave Rettenmaier, Carroll, Iowa, senior, social science and history major: "I feel this is one sure way of telling who is prepared for college and who is not. I do think the test is fair."

Rick Erickton, Kansas City, sophomore, physical education major: "I don't feel it is necessary to give this test to fill the draft quota."

R. Ossowski P. Cooper

Roger Ossowski, Moline, Ill., senior, English major: "A general draft test I don't feel would be desirable on deciding who should go and who should not go to college."

Philip Cooper, Sheridan, senior, industrial arts major: "I think they will probably have to give the test to fill the quota."

D. Summers J. Delong

Doug Summers, Excelsior Springs, sophomore, chemistry major: "I believe that the test is necessary and that it should be the only basis for a deferment."

John Delong, Norwalk, Iowa, sophomore, history major: "I think it is ridiculous, because the test will be just like the ACTE test. It will be too easy. It would be better if they went completely on grade point."

Buffet, Folk Singing Featured at Smoker

A new dimension in rush smokers was brought to NWMSC Feb. 21 by the men of Alpha Kappa Lambda fraternity.

Breaking away from the traditional, formal smoker, the AKL's went informal. Following a buffet dinner, the group was entertained by old English ballads and folk songs. Dave Baker, Tom Fortner, and Miss Patty Tarwater, accompanied by AKL Lonnie Means, were featured folk singers.

Guests for the evening included Mrs. Clara Peterson, housemother; Dr. LeRoy Crist, sponsor; representatives from the Sigma chapter of AKL at Warrensburg; and representatives from the Lambda chapter at Kansas State College, Emporia.

Coeds who were guests at the event included Michelle Orcutt, Karen Rosecrans, Kathy Seabough, Kathy Abersold, Linda Smith, Harriette Peterson, Toni Osborn, Carol Gregory, and Linda Dow from Alpha Sigma Alpha; Sherry Means, Ann Lauber, Jeannie McCormick, and Sandy Eckhoff, Delta Zeta; Charlotte Christoffel, Miss Tarwater, Diane Cramer, and Terry Stitt, Phi Mu; Sue Miller, and Elaine Sherman, Sigma Sigma Sigma; Marlene Spillman, Donna Davis, Mary Larson, Trudy McCarthy, Marilyn Frandsen, and Betty Thompson, Independents.

The rush supper-smoker was held in the Maryville Legion hall.

Disc Jockey Classes Offered to Students

Disc jockey classes will start from 4 to 5 p. m. Sunday or from 5:30 to 6:30 p. m. Monday for the "on air" personnel of campus radio station KDLX.

Bob Lafferty, former professional broadcaster and now a student at MSC, will conduct the classes which are to be held in conjunction with learning to use the new KDLX equipment.

The new equipment consists of the new studio and control console that was recently completed at a cost of about $700. All work of installing the new equipment was done by the student technical staff of KDLX.

Lafferty is offering two classes each week for the convenience of disc jockeys who can not attend one or the other. The material given in the two classes in one week will be the same, making it possible to attend only one class a week. Lafferty said it should take about three weeks to complete the course.

At the completion of the course a written and practical test will be given to each D. J. to determine whether he or she is qualified to operate the station's new equipment.

All classes will be conducted in studio "A" at the radio station.

Independent Group Initiates Program To Promote Ideals of Democracy

An organization to serve the independent has been initiated at MSC. Four students were formally inducted as officers of GDI independent student organization, Tuesday, Mar. 1.

Initiated as officers were Jon McAvoy, freshman, Walnut, Iowa, president; Marlene Kelly, junior, Excelsior Springs, vice-president; Becky Dunfee, sophomore, Denver, Mo., secretary; and Susan Shew, freshman, Auburn, Neb., treasurer.

During the formal initiation each officer was introduced by Rachel Templeman, freshman class president, and each officer presented a speech on concepts and values of GDI.

The three ideals of GDI explained by the constitution committee are as follows: Achieve equal representation on campus, to improve faculty-student relations, and to promote better school spirit.

The organization chose as its campus name, Gestio Deimpus Intrepide the Latin meaning for "to perform democracy undaunted." GDI will be the phrase used by most members.

Marlene Kelly opened discussion on participation in the Ugly Man Contest. The group discussed finances and candidates for Student Senate and Union Board representatives.

The Stroller has noticed that twice a week many of MSC's young men flock to Hudson Hall to view "Batman." There is such a demand for seats that the Dorm Council may have to start charging admission.

The Coffee Information Service reports that 70 per cent of the colleges in the U. S. and Canada have at least one student coffee house, and some have two or more. Would this informal type of recreation place be an asset to the campus life of MSC?

Quite elated was ye olde Stroller to learn that AWS has decided to extend women's closing hours to 12 midnight on the eve of Walk Out Day. Now the only question is: When is Walk Out Day?

Spring is approaching and young men's fancies are turning to thoughts of motorcycles. Some colleges are even offering free parking for cycles since they take up so much less room than cars.

A boyfriend with a bike does present a new approach to dating. A girl must learn to mount and dismount gracefully without stepping on the exhaust pipe. Also essential is a smattering of general terminology if she is to exist comfortably around her date.

So girls of MSC—when your date whizzes up to the room on his Honda, flash him an excited grin and inquire, "How many e's in this bike, Harry?"

One of the Hudson Hall first floor girls was seen by the "evil eye" of yours truly as she walked to class wearing two different colored shoes.

(Editorial note: Does this prove that when it comes to the big decisions, these college gals still need Mom and Dad?)

Evidently there has been a physical fitness program instituted in the Den this week—all the new Greek pledges have purchased track shoes.

The Stroller is looking forward to all the dances and movies sponsored by the Union Board this month.

Thought for the day: Study without thought is vain. Thought without study is dangerous.

Freshman, Amazed at Industrial Interest In 4-H, Finds Celebrities Fascinating

By Sally Jackson

"I was surprised at the industrial interest in 4-H," said Northwest Missouri State freshman, Kurby Wiley, who had a series of exciting experiences last fall in Chicago.

Kurby was one of 34 Missouri 4-H winners who were selected to attend the National 4-H Club Congress. Fourteen hundred winners were representatives from clubs in 40 states. The American Oil Foundation was the award donor for the gathering, and other industries sponsored events during the week-long convention.

Kurby was the Missouri state tractor driving winner. Although he had driven a tractor in contests only three years, Kurby won first in the Nodaway County district after plotting a course, backing a four-wheel trailer through the course, showing other maneuvers with a four-wheel trailer, taking a practical examination, taking a written test, and keeping a notebook.

His winning of the trip to Chicago also was based on leadership and participation in other 4-H activities. Kurby, in the organization for nine years, was president of the Northwest District junior leader conference, placed in cattle judging contests, and won second in the county speech contest.

One of the highlights of the trip was his meeting Miss Teenage America, Miss Colette Agnes Daiute. Kurby remembers, when she appeared, he was the first to recognize her.

DOUBLE HONORS go to Kurby Wiley, '69, at the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago. Here Miss Teenage America, Colette Agnes Daiute, New Jersey, gives him a plaque citing him as a state winner in tractor operation and F. Cushing Smith, representing the American Oil Company, Wiley's Chicago

"I started singing the Miss America song, softly. She heard it and thanked me. It wasn't romantic; I just wanted her to know I knew who she was although I couldn't remember her name."

Later Miss Daiute presented Kurby his plaque award for being tractor winner.

"She was quite friendly and could get right down to our level when she talked. And she was lovely, too. I thought she deserved to be Miss Teenage America. She was very intelligent and spoke before our group on safety."

"And when she sat at my table during one of the banquets, she asked a lot of questions. She wanted to know about us, where we lived, our ages, our schools, and our ambitions. She was from New Jersey and noticed our southern accents."

The 4-Hers also saw Miss America and Miss Missouri. Kurby thought Miss Missouri was "the best looking one there." She and her whole family, the Browning family, danced and sang as part of the banquet entertainment.

Among the other events which Kurby enjoyed was his selection from the 1,400 to sing in a special 4-H honor program at the Chicago International Livestock Exposition.

In addition, one of the speakers for the convention was "just another vice-president among vice-presidents." This vice-president, however, was second-in-command of the nation, the Honorable Hubert H. Humphrey.

Kurby was told that everyone who sat within a certain distance of the vice-president had to have a security clearance check. Secret Service agents and uniformed police kept the banquet hall under surveillance continually.

Since the excitement of meeting Miss Teenage America, of singing before the Chicago International audience, and of hearing an address by the country's vice-president is over, Kurby is busy studying to become a mechanical engineer.

But he still remembers the impression left with him by "industrial giants" in Chicago: "They are really interested in 4-H and what the clubs are doing all over the country," he emphasized.

Campus Bells Step Aside For Progress

Eighteen years ago, students at MSC were probably late to class just as often as they are today, although not because the bells didn't ring.

Still hanging, but not in use

BELLS AT MSC once were operated this old-fashioned time clock. Pictured is Myrl D. Long, instructor in the Chemistry Department, where the clock is located.

any more, is the old-time clock that used to run the campus bells. Dr. J. W. Hake, who was, at that time, head of the Physics Department, controlled and maintained the clock.

A unique feature of this clock was the pendulum which had two vessels containing mercury. The expansion or contraction of the mercury compensated for the change in length of the pendulum in such a way that the swing of the pendulum would be uniform regardless of the temperature. Small buttons served as manual controls whenever the automatic controls failed. Rarely were these ever used, however, for the clock was quite accurate.

While the new electronic system was being adjusted, the old clock was reactivated for time and time again. Assuredly, its day has passed, but it's here on time-tested basis.

Just One Little Candle

The flag was lowered to half-mast last Thursday when it was learned that Mrs. Harry E. Sheetz, English instructor, had died during the night. Grieved were all of those who knew her.

Not only was Mrs. Sheetz considered a dedicated teacher at Northwest Missouri State College, but also she was an active citizen of Maryville, dearly loved by her family, her co-workers, and her many friends.

With her passing, a bright candle seemed to be momentarily extinguished—a candle which helped light the darkness for others—a candle which always maintained a steady glow inspiring both old and new friends with her faith in God and her belief in the innate goodness of youth. Troubled students who needed a friend and helper found one in Mrs. Sheetz.

During her lifetime, however, Mrs. Sheetz was able to set glowing many other candles, lights that will remain to continue the work to which she was so greatly dedicated. For years, this fine teacher quietly inspired her students. She aided her co-workers. She cheered her friends.

Many of those students have gone and others will go forth to work in the teaching profession. If these teachers and future teachers are as earnestly dedicated to the field of education as was Mrs. Sheetz, how lasting will be her influence.

It is impossible for us to say, "Thank you, Mrs. Sheetz"; however, it is possible to show our appreciation by keeping our own goals just a little higher and by protecting them and not giving up even though it might be so much easier to allow the wind of adversity to blow out the flame of our candles.

A woman of grace, a woman dedicated to helping others, a woman of great kindness, Mrs. Sheetz has lighted an eternal candle to guide those who knew and loved her.

Sincerity and Thy Neighbor

With the coming of this year's Religious Emphasis Week, it might be wise to reflect a bit on the theme, THY NEIGHBOR.

Naturally, the most obvious things that come to our minds, are the stories Mommy and Daddy taught us about the Good Samaritan and what some people call the trite Golden Rule. We attend churches "humbly" listening to the preacher tell us how to be good children of God, how to be sweet to everyone, how to "turn the other cheek," and how to be generally nicey-nice. . . .

But it doesn't work that way, does it? College life, unlike any other area of living, demands something different, simply because it is different. It is demanding. It's hard to be nice to people.

Here we are — people from all over the United States. Half of us are wondering when and if we are going to get the big letter from Uncle Sam. It's hard to be sweet to people when we have our own problems to worry about.

There are always a few snide little remarks directed your way in the Den; there is always the guy who walked out of your life last week; there is always the girl who decided she was a little short of cash yesterday, and suddenly yours turned up missing; there is always the test you "aced," which somehow came back with a D on it.

Who can afford to be goody-good to people when the roof falls in on our heads, and it's all we can do to keep ourselves breathing? Nobody.

The only thing we can really "afford" to do is be sincere. That's another word that most of us can't even define any more. It seems that we have become so entangled in everything else, we have lost the "ME" in the scuffle. But if we can still salvage the pieces, and if we really can see the truth about who "ME" actually is, suddenly sincerity isn't a riddle anymore. If each of us could find that sincerity within ourselves, we wouldn't have to be nice to people. We wouldn't even have to try very hard, because it would just be there.

Doesn't it seem reasonable then, that since we are concerned about ourselves anyway, we might as well continue feeling that way? All each of us needs now is sincerity. Funny, we're right back where we started — The Golden Rule.

Delegates Glean Ideas From KRCRCHE Meeting

What is KRCRCHE? Is it the sound of a sneeze, the oath mouthed by a lady judo expert, a nonsense syllable, or an organization like KAOS or Thrush?

KRCRCHE, however, could be the start of something big. The Kansas City Regional Council for Higher Education, consisting at the time of 18 schools, provides a framework for fulfilling many promises.

Formerly chartered in 1962 and operating in early 1963, KRCRCHE includes Avila College, Baker University, Central Missouri State College, the Kansas City Art Institute and School of Design, Kansas City Metropolitan Junior College, Missouri Valley College, Ottawa University, Park College, Rockhurst College, Saint Benedict's College, Saint Mary College, Saint Paul School of Theology Methodist, Tarkio College, the University of Missouri at Kansas City, William Jewell College, and two most recent members, Cottey College and Northwest Missouri State College.

Five student representatives for MSC and other member schools recently attended an initial meeting of a student committee while Dean Charles Koerble participated in a meeting of the Student Deans committee. Participants Dianne Brown, Rosanne Barlett, Bob Bosch, Gary McCollough, and Jerry Newman share the following ideas with the MSC student body:

• The student committee, which will work with the humanities committee, will meet again Mar. 21 or 22 when the Student Deans reconvene. The delegates voted unanimously to send only three representatives to the next conference for more adequate opportunities to speak.

The committee also established a committee of two representatives from each school to meet and exchange calendars in order to enable students to know the available programs on other KRCRCHE campuses. The KRCRCHE central office will publish these calendars, as well as a listing of available and requested performers, and send them to the student government.

• Delegates were excited by the potential of the council. The group plans to act as a central booking agent, bringing more outstanding performers and lecturers to the Kansas City area and saving money for the council members. Within the KRCRCHE structure, schools may work together to secure a vocal or instrumental group or Congressman for three nights on three different campus. Schools may also interchange programs.

• Some schools in the conference have sponsored a course evaluation under the auspices of the student government and with the approval of the faculty. A cross-section of students and teachers responded to the questionnaire, which has created undesired student-teacher relations at times.

• A blood drive was a project carried on on many campuses with varying degrees of success. At Warrensburg, the Student Senate sponsored a Blood for Viet Nam program. Local merchants contributed orange juice, coffee, and donuts which were available after the donation. If more than 50 people contract to donate, the CMSC delegates commented, the bloodmobile will come to the campus.

• Sororities at some schools have challenged one another to a game of female football. MSC delegates considered the possibility of sponsoring a girls' game with faculty members as referees and contributing the admission charge to activity funds or to charity.

• MSC representatives also reflected on the recent appearance of the Kingston Trio at Tarkio. A representative of the Tarkio student government said that the school lost money on the show because the school and the town are small and because there was no place big enough to hold the program. It seems too bad that MSC and Tarkio could not have worked together on this project. Perhaps with the beginning of KRCRCHE, the two and other schools can cooperate to bring the best to the Midwest with the best possible financial arrangement.

• Another observation was that UMKC, CMSC, and MSC are considerably larger schools than the others represented and also have use of state funds.

OBSERVE NEWS DEADLINE

All campus clubs and fraternal groups are asked to observe the Monday noon deadline for Friday's Missourian.

Student Forum

To the Editors:

I am a transfer student very much impressed by the friendly atmosphere of Northwest Missouri State College. Faculty and students alike exhibit an attitude of interest and congeniality.

There remains some truth in that myth of the small college, that myth which embraces the idea of individual recognition and participation, of personal involvement. Unlike the large university complex which leaves a student somewhat awed, the small college offers an air of peacefulness that is relatively free from the frenzied pressures of contemporary life. This may or may not be a virtue. In my opinion, it is desirable.

Of course, I have my adversaries. It is true that the small school can be secluded to the point of danger. But student life anywhere is unrealistic to a degree. And in the final analysis, it is the individual himself who must determine the kind of education he needs and the kind of life he desires to live — This regardless of his school.

—Arthur Thompson, '67

That Illusive Butterfly

Have you ever caught butterflies?

If you try, you might discover chasing and nabbing those illusive creatures to be the most exciting and worthwhile experience of your whole life. Where would we be if people like Luther Burbank, George Washington Carver, Jonas Salk had not tried to like the fields in which they eventually succeeded?

"Chasing butterflies is too difficult; I can't succeed," you tell yourself. Is it the greater tragedy to fail or to worry so much about failing that you inevitably will? Won't you get out of something what you put into it?

Humanities is a lot like a butterfly chase.

Not everyone will like the humanistic studies, but enough people have tried to like them and do. They have survived the tests of time—if they had no appeal, no merit, no interest, they would have died. Specifically MSC evidently has a sufficient number of interested students to offer a minor in humanities and in the near future a major and to increase possibly the number of humanistic courses available.

"I have to take it, but I won't like it! And I won't pass either!" If you have such a preconceived negative disposition, take a look at some MSC individual scholastic records, which indicate that the humanities are not as hard as some make them. It takes work, however, and effort, which even mediocre students have put out and which has paid off for them. Those students didn't plan on failing, and they didn't give up.

Among the most important ingredients in an educated man are empathy and compassion. Empathy is developed by perceiving the nature of mankind's suffering, his fight to survive, his efforts to improve himself and his world. Humanities, the study of art, literature, music and ideas, is the story of that suffering, that fight.

If we can appreciate the past, we can appreciate ourselves more and make a more significant contribution to the history of human experience.

Have you ever collected rocks?

Norwegian Gymnasts to Perform at MSC

GYMNASTICS ENABLE the 1,000 members of the Women Students Sports Club, Norway, to keep physically fit while also providing a break from study. In this scene, several of the group who will appear here

Mar. 24 are shown in action. The traveling group will be brought to MSC under the auspices of the Women's Physical Education Department, headed by Miss Bonnie Magill.

Norwegian Women Students' Sports Club, also known as Kvinnelige Students Idrettsklubb, will perform in Lamkin Gymnasium at 8 p. m. on Thursday, Mar. 24.

The program will include a parade with the flag, tumbling, basic stunts using uneven parallel bars, exercises with Indian clubs, free floor exercises with rhythm balls, and vaulting. Folk dancing, used only on festive occasions, will be performed in native costume.

The touring group, whose original purpose was to preserve physical fitness while also providing a welcome break from study, was organized in 1896 through instituted gymnastic classes at the University of Oslo. Activities of the group include gymnastics, ballet, skiing, map - and -compass-cross - country running, athletics, handball, basketball, volleyball, tennis, badminton, and fencing.

The Women Students' Sports Club, classified by authorities as an elite group, staged its first public appearance in 1936. Her Royal Highness Princess Martha attended the first performance given after World War II. It was in celebration of the club's 50th anniversary.

The group, which has performed in various portions of Norway and other Scandinavian countries, also takes part in the gymnastic festival held every fourth year by the Norwegian Gymnastic Association. The club recently gained third position in competition that was open to elite groups from the entire country.

Many long hours of practice lie behind their perfected performances. The group meets twice a week for two-hour sessions under the guidance of Randi Norman, who has coached them for the past 35 years. Odd Wormnaes, a former national gymnastics champion, instructs the members in advanced tumbling, vaulting, and work on uneven parallel bars. There will be no admission charge for the program. All interested people are invited to attend.

The women's Physical Education Department, headed by Miss Bonnie Magill has made arrangements for the show.

What's Spring?

MSC on the Diamond Court, Course, Cinders

The MSC spring sports program will get under way the first week in April with the promise of a good season for all four major teams.

The track team, guided by Coach John W. Wahrer, will take the field with 35 men, seven of whom are lettermen returning from the 1965 team. Practicing since Jan. 31, the team shows promise in the middle distance and longer runs.

The experience of four lettermen in the middle distance runs is a major factor. They are Phil Close, Phil Frahm, Dan Haskell, and Pete Meindertsma. Miler Kent Kavanaugh is returning and also Jim Johnson, a top hurdler from last season. Pete Hager is the only returning letterman in sprints.

Two freshman pole vaulters, John Alred and Jerry Grant, will see action as will discus thrower Gary Hansen, 1965 Iowa State high school champion.

Coach Wahrer opened the season with an indoor meet with Graceland College on the MSC track Feb. 25. He is getting the boys in shape for the indoor conference meet Mar. 19 at Columbia.

A doubleheader at Simpson College Apr. 1 will open the MSC baseball season. Four regular and four provisional lettermen are back from the 1965 team which had a good 13-6 mark.

Coach Burton L. Richey's team will be led by pitchers Doug Girling and Vic Mitchell, catcher Ed Shultz, infielders Dick Holcomb, Don Orlowski, and Lou Mooney, and outfielders Gary Shaw and Glenn West.

Holcomb is the top returning hitter with a .345 average last year followed by Shaw with a .313. Mitchell is the top pitcher with a 4-1 record in 1965.

The outlook for the tennis team, coached by Robert Gregory, is very promising. Last year's squad, except for one man, Larry Harms, will be returning. The 1965 team had a 9-3 dual meet record and gained a third-place tie in the MIAA meet, which was won by Kirksville.

The players returning this year are Bob, Jim, and Dick Schilling, Bruce Horrel, Warland Griffith, Joseph Paul Salvator, George Varchola, Jim Crozier, and Cliff Duffield.

The calendar calls for traveling this spring. On Apr. 4, the team will begin a five-day trip at Warrensburg. This will be followed by a journey south to Springfield State, Oklahoma Baptist University, Southeast Oklahoma State, and East Texas State.

On their return, the net men will participate in the Kirksville Invitational Tournament Apr. 15-16.

Coach Ryland Milner predicts a good season for his golf team. The 1965 team had a 6-3 overall mark and placed fourth in the MIAA.

Four returning lettermen—Don Ballenger, Burt Hansen, Don Peterson, and Jerry Robey—will lend valuable experience to a field of newcomers, Ed Simmons, Michael Lorimer, Larry Maiorano, Guy MacIntosh, J. B. Watsabaugh, Robert Cline, Tom Peake, and Tom Wiles.

Sports for All College Youth Provided Through Intramurals

"Sports for All," has been the slogan of the intramural co-recreational sports program at MSC ever since its beginning 20 years ago.

The program offers most individual sports as well as such team seasonal sports as football, track, and basketball. Currently basketball intramural competition is interesting both students and faculty.

The basketball participants are divided into 60 teams with those split into 24 fraternity and 36 independent teams. The teams are divided into four leagues each. The program presently has about 2,500 participants taking part in 228 games. At the beginning of this week 83 games remained on the schedule.

In the fraternity leagues, the following teams are ahead in the running: the Pelties, YF's, Zombies, Screw-Ups, Jocks, and the Mooses. Winners in the independent leagues are headed by the Good Guys I, Our Gang, The Semis, Betas, and the Pushovers. League play will end Mar. 15.

Dennis Gates, student intramural director, stated that he is completely satisfied with the progress of the basketball tourney. Dr. Burton L. Richey, chairman of the Division of Physical Education, commented that in the future he hopes that more students will take advantage of this opportunity to participate in intramural sports.

"All participation in the program is voluntary, and the players receive nothing but personal satisfaction," Doctor Richey said.

While most refereeing is done by the physical education 151 class, anyone interested in refereeing should contact the department chairman about helping with the officiating.

'Cats, Second in MIAA, Reach Finale in Interstate

The Bearcat swimming team winds up its season this weekend in the Interstate Swimming and Diving Championships in Warrensburg, after bringing home the second-place trophy from the MIAA meet last Saturday.

The CMSC Mules captured the first conference title compiling 85 points to MSC's 65, Cape Girardeau was third with 15 points, and Springfield was fourth with 14.

Senior Frank Fisher led the Bearcat effort with firsts in the 50-and 100-yard freestyles, and second in the 200-yard free. He also anchored the winning freestyle relay of Jerry Peirce, John Eichelis, and Randy Hanson.

Mark Thomas and Steve Conner scored victories in the 100-yard backstroke and 100-yard butterfly, respectively, to take the 'Cats' other individual titles. Thomas and Conner teamed with Eichelis and Brian Nehlsen in the second place medley relay, and Thomas captured second in the 200-yard backstroke.

Hanson placed second in the individual medley, 200-yard butterfly, and the 500-yard freestyle. Other Bearcat placings included Jerry Peirce, third in the 50-and 100-yard freestyles; Eichelis, third in the 200-yard backstroke, and Larry White, third in the diving.

In this weekend's three-day, 15-team Interstate meet, the 'Cats will be following much the same line up in the events. Three new events the 1,650-yard freestyle, 400-yard individual medley, and the 800-yard free relay, will be filled by Hanson and Linn Jones, Nehlsen, and the team of Peirce, Eichelis, Jones, and Fisher.

The meet's 15-team field includes several of the 'Cats' 7-3 regular season foes. Among them are CMSC and Emporia State, a slim victor over the tankers in January. However, Coach Dyche stated the MIAA second-place 'Cats should place high in the meet standing.
